Who authorized classroom access?

OCTOBER 28, 2025

John describes his consent as limited to speech services. He wanted to know who allowed District 12 into his son's classroom.

A CPCD staff member described an EN103 form that classroom staff had a parent sign and said the form should have been uploaded.

The signed form and classroom log would show what the parent authorized and when anyone visited.

Why did the family return?

OCTOBER 31, 2025

John went to the CPCD administrative office on Robinson Street expecting to discuss or obtain his son's records.

Dr. Shana Lachowicz and Ernest Wingo separately described a scheduled meeting to police. Ernest, the child's grandfather, gave a time of 10 a.m.

Did CPCD agree to release the file that day? The two police interviews establish the appointment and leave that question open.

Which charge was on John's ticket?

OCTOBER 31, 2025

John says he was pushed outside and disputes the damage charge. His mother received a trespass citation.

Detective Kenoyer wrote that he saw a shove and a kick from across the street. He described two charges for John. Ticket E1481688 lists only property damage.

The Axon excerpt begins after the contact. It cannot show what caused the reported dent or the cost of repair.

What changed in county court?

JUNE–JULY 2026

John recognized his city ticket number and wants to know who authorized the new filing.

The El Paso County form says "REWRITE," names E1481688 as the companion ticket and lists one criminal-mischief count. Service is dated June 22. The filing stamp reads July 24.

The form names officers. The city disposition, referral and charging authorization could identify who made the decision.

Did John receive the school file?

OCTOBER–NOVEMBER 2026

As of November 25, John said he still lacked the complete file and an answer about who followed up on his son's safety.

Defense investigator Laura K. Esqueda requested the records on October 22 with John's signed release. Her November 3 email confirms she sent the request.

A production log could show which records were released. A separate referral and disposition would show how the safety concern was handled.
